* The State of Indiana allows individuals who hold a valid teaching license to add additional content areas to their initial license by passing additional licensing exams. The individual taking additional content area tests then lists Hanover College as the Preparing Institution for this exam, because the Preparing Institution field cannot be left blank. However, the institution does not certify these additions, but the results are added to the EPP data and results in disproportionate numbers for the EPP.

Part B: Hanover College Educator Preparation Program Institutional Licensing Data
*The Indiana Department of Education does not report data on programs with <10 completers
