Objective:

At an early age I knew I wanted to be an educator. I became a teacher in January of 1969 and enjoyed every minute of working with children. Through the years I realized that possibly I could be a greater influence on education if I became a "teacher of teachers". After completing the appropriate degree in order to enter school administration, I became an elementary principal. I have been responsible for curriculum planning, managing the building be it capital projects, budgeting, safety, maintenance, transportation issues, parent conferencing, professional development, evaluation of all staff, hiring and termination of staff, and served with peer administrators to determine policies and procedures for the corporation. It was an extremely rewarding experience and it was with mixed feelings that I chose to retire. Many asked why I chose to leave a profession I have loved and a staff that surrounded me with support and encouragement to stay, but I was eager for a change. I had served with my heart and all of my ability and I wanted a new challenge. My supervision of student teachers for Hanover College has been a wonderful opportunity to continue serving children. I dedicate myself to whatever task there is to complete and I am anxious to start another venture which will allow me to use my knowledge and experience to benefit another organization.
